

CORE

HOMELAND SECURITY AND COUNTERTERRORISM GEOGRAPHIC INFORMATION SYSTEMS AND CRIME ANALYSIS, PART 1

161-0004

These lessons focus on understanding how geographic information systems (GIS) can benefit police departments in the analysis of crime and other essential data. Upon completion of the lesson, a law enforcement officer will understand the components of GIS and will have learned about a variety of maps, boundaries and data (obtained both internally and externally) that can be viewed within a specified location.

EMERGENCY PREPAREDNESS AND WMD LARGE VEHICLE BOMBS: POST-BLAST INVESTIGATION, PART 4

162-0004

This program covers all aspects of investigation involved with a simulated vehicle bomb in an urban center. Elements include evidence recovery, photography, and a discussion of scene access and document processing.

EMERGING ISSUES IN HOMELAND SECURITY CRIMINAL PROFILING, PART 3: ACCURACY OR INACCURACIES?

164-0003

Typically, information presented in the news and entertainment media presents profiling as a highly accurate investigative tool and depicts profilers as modern day "Houdinis." This show examines the myths and facts about criminal profiling and assesses its value as an investigative tool.

LETN CLASSICS

PATROL RAPID VEHICLE TAKEDOWN, PART 1

179-0042

This program discusses the concepts behind rapid vehicle take-downs and demonstrates the specific tactics used in safely terminating a chase.

SUPPORT

DIGITAL CRIME AND INFRASTRUCTURE PROTECTION WINDOWS™ OPERATING SYSTEMS AND BASIC EVIDENCE RECOVERY

152-0004

This program orients officers to basic forensic analysis of computers involved in investigations. Although specialized search tools are discussed, an emphasis is placed on basic procedures not requiring commercial software tools. Many techniques are possible with free, downloadable tools; however, they are more time-consuming. This is not a complete course on computer forensic analysis, but an orientation and introduction.

CSI FORENSICS THE STUDY OF BLOOD SPATTER EVIDENCE***

160-0005

The signs left behind by blood spatter can provide valuable information regarding what happened, where and when. This program looks at the different ways blood spatter can appear and how to interpret the patterns.

TACTICAL PATROL CONDUCTING TRAFFIC STOPS, PART 2

163-0003

This lesson focuses on the importance of a complete traffic stop, traffic stop techniques and officer safety.

LEGAL UPDATE FLORIDA V. J.L.

165-0004

This Legal Update discusses the 2000 U.S. Supreme Court decision in the case of Florida v. J.L. The Court ruled that an anonymous tip indicating a person is carrying a gun is not sufficient reason to justify a stop and frisk.
